Viennese Fiaker goulash

THE traditional Viennese goulash based on an old house recipe.

Served with crispy Frankfurter, free-range fried egg, fluffy bread dumpling and pickled gherkin.

... This goulash owes its name to the always hungry coachmen of the famous Viennese horse team. The beef ragout is topped with a garnish of sausage and fried egg - and the juice consists of lots of sweet paprika powder. The latter comes from Austria's neighboring country Hungary. Even the cooking legend Auguste Escoffier had “his” peppers imported from Szeged to France in the 19th century.
